

RED SPOTS ON YOUR BABY'S HANDS AND FEET?

BRACE YOURSELF...

See those red, itchy spots on your baby's hands and feet?

Now, look at your carpet...

You can't see them, but they're there.

Wriggling swarms of tiny tic-like carpet beetles. Eager to sink their nasty little pinchers into your baby's tender hands, feet, and legs.

Even a three-foot crawl across your "clean" carpet can put your baby's hands and feet at risk.

Can you imagine what happens when they put those hands in their mouth?

But That's Not All...

Since 1948, dermatologists have reported on case histories of dermatitis caused by contact with carpet beetles.

Victims suffered pruritic itching and papulovesicular eruptions. Some develop respiratory tract and eye irritation.

What Can You Do Now?

Long-term exposure can make your baby's skin desensitized to carpet beetles. Or, you can purge your home of these nasty little creepers for good.

Call the phone number below for a FREE RECORDED MESSAGE on the safest, most effective way to rid your home of carpet beetles and other critters.

CAUSES OF CARPET BEETLE ALLERGIES

Clinical research describes apparent allergic reactions to carpet beetle larval hairs, and insect blood.

Get Rid of Carpet Critters for Good

CALL (813) 563-9630 RIGHT NOW FOR A FREE RECORDED MESSAGE